Airport May Go Someplace Else

Development of an international airport to serve Orange County's growing air transportation needs appears feasible according to County Supervisors Ralph Diedrich (local district) and Thomas Riley.

In a meeting Thursday, the two Supervisors agreed to meet with Riverside County officials to discuss development of a 10,000 acre facility at Rancho California in Riverside County. Under the concept proposed by Riley last April, a joint airport authority would be created to include Orange, Riverside and possibly San Diego counties.

Diedrich and Riley were authorized by the Board of Supervisors to explore the plan and to begin preliminary discussion with officials of the two neighboring counties. An initial study performed by the County Airport Department staff indicates that the project could be realized in cooperation with other counties.

Cost for the project, which would include moving some 100 to 120 million cubic yards of dirt, is estimated to be about $150 million to be paid through combinations of funding, including federal grants and revenue bonds.

According to the airport department analysis, there will be demand for some 40 million annual passenger trips by residents of Orange, Riverside, San Diego and San Bernardinao counties by 1990. The dual runway airport at Rancho California would probably handle at least 15 million of those trips, but would have the capacity for handling up to 30 million per year.

Riley and Diedrich will now meet with Riverside County Supervisor William E. Jones, whose district includes the Rancho California area. If agreement can be reached at that meeting, an application for Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) planning grants to further explore the feasibility of building the facility could result. That meeting with Jones should occur within the next eight weeks.

Initial pans call for construction of two 14,000-foot runways with 2,700-feet overruns on 3,000 acres of land about 2,000-feet above sea level. An additional 7,000 acres would be used for construction of parking lots, terminal buildings and other airport related facilities.

The site identified by Riley is on relatively flat land and would require movement of about 100 million cubic yards of dirt, compared to 300 million yards proposed for an airport at Chino Hills. Cost for the grading would be about $100 million and would take from two to three years.

New interstate freeways funded by the federal government will soon connect the Rancho California area to San Diego and Riverside. Ground access from southern Orange County is not yet resolved. Plans include road construction to serve the Orange County area, provided that the counties can agree and the FAA is willing to underwrite part of the costs.

If agreement is reached between Orange and Riverside counties, they will jointly approach San Diego to solicit their participation. Those counties which agreed to join the venture could form a joint airport authority which would plan, construct and maintain the facility.

Major advantages of the proposal are the relative low price of construction, service to an entire region rather than to only one community, and the lack of existing residences in flight patterns surrounding the site.

All of the 10,000 acres proposed for the airport site and the entire 30,000 acres which would be zoned compatible with the airport are owned by Rancho California, a subsidiary of Kaiser-Aetna, Inc. The singular ownership offers great advantages in acquiring the site and developing the project, the Supervisors said.

If Riverside County officials decide to join the project, official approval of FAA planning funds could be obtained before January of 1976. Construction could begin in 1978 with completion as early as 1985.

Riley initially proposed the Rancho California site to relieve pressure for expansion of flights from Orange County Airport in Newport Beach, The site of numerous lawsuits because of increasing aircraft noise. The Rancho California site would not replace existing traffic at Orange County, but would provide local air service for medium and long haul flights (more than 500 miles).

After construction is completed, revenues generated by use of the facility would be used to pay off debts arising from construction, with eventually all costs being paid through revenues.

Dates Set For Firemen Hearings

A second postponement on a temporary injunction to be heard in the courts concerning the walk out-lock out of Placentia's fire department, has been obtained by the Firefighters Union Local 2147, setting the new date for September 30.

Scheduled for September 10 are the trials for four members of the union, charged with one count each of petty theft. Charged are former employees Capt. Richard Bitrick, Engineer Arthur Wilkerson and firemen Patrick Wible and Richard Clawson.

The petty theft trials are the outgrowth of discovery that three city-owned vacant buildings had allegedly been burglarized of around $2,000 in equipment. The four men were charged with one count of petty theft each and dismissed from their positions.

When four other firemen were reprimanded for breaking rules and placed on 30 days suspension, concerning the same situation, firemen, all of whom are members of the local union, declared that any further questioning would constitute a lock-out and later failed to show up for work.

The city obtained a temporary restraining order which put the

Hearing Set On PUSD Budget

Public hearing for the Placentia Unified School District's 1975-76 budget, which totals almost $22 million, will be held during the regular meeting of the board of education at 7:45 p.m. Monday, Aug. 4, in the Education Center, 1301 E. Orangethorpe Avenue.

The projected budget is almost $2 million higher than last year's budget, with the additional income coming primarily from increased student population and a 6 per cent inflation allowance from the state, explained Dr. John Mullender, assistant superintendent of administrative services.

Estimated tax rate for local homeowners is $4.82 per $100 of assessed valuation, about the same rate as last year, Mullender reported.

"It's possible that the overall tax rate could be lowered a little because of the effect the 22 per cent increase in our district's assessed valuation will have on various overrides," Mullender said.

However, because final figures

BROTHER, BROTHER, BROTHER--Placentia's Behle brothers were selected as winners in the brother look-alikes; contest held recently at the Orange County Fair, Costa Mesa. The sons of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Behle, Placentia, they are Roger, 8; Aaron, 4; and Curt, 6. Aaron also was chosen the Prince of the Fair. The Fair this year was the largest ever with 222, 385 visitors attending, and a well-attended appearance by Bob Hope.

Illegal Alien Policy

A volatile issue, proposed by the city of Placentia, which would as a last resort permit local agencies to enforce laws and regulations concerning illegal aliens, was discussed and sent back for a rewrite Thursday night by the League of California Cities, Orange County Division.

The organization is made up of councilmen, representatives of their cities.

Drawing a larger audience in protest, than councilmen attending, representatives of organizations, predominantly Mexican-American were allowed to state their views on the resolution...all negative.

The resolution was an outgrowth of complaints made to Placentia Councilman Jack Gomez by members of the Mexican-American community in Placentia, about problems created in the city through a large influx of Mexican Nationals arriving in the city illegally. Naturalization and Immigration authorities, with Placentia police in attendance, have twice this year rounded up over a hundred persons found to be in the country without papers.

The Nationals have then been returned to Mexico.

Following inquiries by Councilman Gomez, Placentia Police Chief Norman Traub was authorized to make a study of the alien problem in Placentia. The result was a 215-page report compiled by Police Lt. James Corrigan and stating that the department estimated that there are between 500 and 1,000 illegal aliens in the city at any given time.

Burglaries Up 92%; City's No. 1 Crime

Burglary, already Placentia's number one crime, is up a whopping 92 per cent the first six months of this year, following a boost of 50 per cent in 1974, Police Chief Norman Traub reported this week.

Tagging burglary the city's number one problem, Chief Traub said his department would take measures to bring down the soaring statistics.

The chief indicated that Placentia police will be spending more man hours in arresting the spread of the burglar's paradise than in other areas, possibly traffic control. "We can't be all things to all people at all times," he explained.

Chief Traub said further that he considers the leniency of the courts as the number one factor in failing to bring the problem under control. He gave examples of persons charged and convicted with burglary who are "back on the streets in a matter of hours."

Traub said that his department will attempt to organize and inform the citizenry of Placentia to act as a deterrent in the spread of the crime which can hit everyone. He said also that burglary is more prevalent in higher density areas, such as apartments and townhouses where strangers may not be quickly recognized as intruding outsiders.

Losses through burglary are around $125,000 in Placentia to date this year as compared with $90,000 for the first six months of 1974. Theft, however, is down slightly with 363 cases for the first six months last year compared to 310 so far this year.

Citizens are urged to take measures to protect their own property and use of Operation Identification is encouraged, where householders place a driver's license number on valuable possessions. Equipment for the identification program is available at the police station.

Chief Traub said further that efforts to inform the public will be made through clubs, organizations and the press "until the crime is substantially reduced. We hope to recruit the entire community to solve the burglary problem."

Burglaries now are so widespread that citizens victimized may be asked to come to the station to report

Fullerton Is Key To Annexation

"Fullerton is the key to the whole thing. It's not Yorba Linda and it's not Placentia," Superintendent of Schools of the Placentia Unified School District, John O. Tynes told his board Monday night.

"I don't see any need for any meetings until Fullerton comes to grips with whether they want to let Yorba Linda de-annex," Tynes explained the situation.

In another show of hands and discussion of the possibility of the Yorba Linda School District merging with that of PUSD, action got little further than the talking stage Monday night, although the PUSD board unanimously approved to proceed with staff recommendations concerning the consolidation.

Reaction, though not pessimistic, was guarded.

Among recommendations made by Tynes to his board was that the Yorba Linda district complete a study to provide essential information so that the PUSD board can make a determination as to whether the merger of the two school districts

Residents On Lewis Place Watch The Trucks Go By

Neighbors along Lewis Place in Placentia, received another 31,000-square foot possible invasion of their privacy last week.

THE DRAINAGE DITCH--In back of the homes on Lewis Place, now clean of debris, is not only specified for water run-off, but holds telephone poles and telephone boxes. The trees fail to cut off the sights and sounds of the shopping center north of the ditch. The elevated truck ramp shows to the right.

The little band along the street have twice complained of their encroaching neighbor to the north, the Sierra Vista Shopping Center.

Among their allegations are that trucks roar past, so close to their homes, that they have dislodged a utility box that services their houses and those up around the cul-de-sac. There have been numerous interruptions of utility services, they report.

Also objectionable, is the proximity of The Pantry Market, in the shopping center, which stands on the southeast corner of Bastanchury Road and Placentia Avenue. The market was built after their homes were in place and inhabited. But no one received a notice about the Pantry's building plans, the neighbors agree.

Consequently, to service the big market, a delivery ramp was elevated several feet, so that trucks and drivers have a clear view into their back yards and windows, they demonstrate. Employees going in and out of back doors are clearly visible and the sound of their voices easily heard.

Having lived with this large neighbor for a couple of years, the families along Lewis Place, whose homes back up to the alley that services the rear of the market, are familiar with the trucks, times of arrival and departure, length of unloading time required and other details about the service.

What was planned in back of their homes without their notification, one neighbor, Ron Green explains, besides the large delivery entry of the market, the elevated ramp and wide alley thoroughfare, was a drainage ditch.

This, from the elevated ramp, cascades down four to five feet to a concrete trough, in which trash, debris and water are caught, and standing in the middle of it are high voltage telephone poles as well as telephone wire boxes. Debris especially collects around these.

"Every three of four months the telephones go out," Barbara Smith, one of the residents reports. "We're all having electrical trouble. We had a wall fire and when they came out to investigate it we found out we have aluminum wiring. We all do. We understand that it has been outlawed in Placentia now....but not before they did our houses."

Daphne Erikson is most concerned that a truck, after a turn around, might miss the roadway and end up in her kitchen and family room. The path is direct once the turn is made and there is only a block wall and back yard intervening.

And the noise is a constant reminder. "We heard them out there last night at 11 p.m.," Danny Adair, another Lewis Place occupant reports. "In fact, they woke me up."

The neighbors had expected more concern from the city, who they

Letters To The Editor

Police Methods Questioned

To the Editor:

When I first heard one of my children refer to policeman as pigs I was stunned. As time passed the kids and their friends continued to use the term pig more frequently. Having grown-up in a similar environment, in a small California town with a small town police department, the pig term is hard for me to accept. As youths we frequently sought the advise of and counsel of our law enforcers. Like a dutiful parent should, we discussed the reference over and over to no avail. They pick on the kids they said. Nonsense, I said when one son was ticketed for moving with the flow of traffic, seven miles per hour over the speed limit. The officer was merely attracted to your car which is a beautiful, mechanically perfect 1967 and you were breaking the law. He is willing to accept that he is guilty, however, doesn't understand why the gray haired gentleman to his left was not cited.

The current procedures employed by our local law enforcement to question and or cite or arrest young people are similar to the methods used by T.V. cops on the really bad guys. One day last week across the street a 15 year old neighbor boy was spread, hands on the police car, patted down, pockets emptied, hand cuffed and taken to the police station. The young man was guilty of taking his brother's off road motorcycle (unlicensed) around the block. With the siren, two police cars, the shake down, the hand cuffs, the bike hauled away and impounded the boy asked if he could go close his garage door, three doors away, and put his dog away.....NO.

At the police station the boy experienced still more trauma. Never having smuggled dope on his person he had not experienced a thorough search. The lad of 15 had some knowledge of perversion and was very uncertain of his destiny.

My son has been shaken down on his motorcycle one block from home and when all else failed he was cited for an intermittant head light. There must be a message to all of this and I am trying to understand and defend the pigs.

firemen back in their stations along with the last four suspended men. Orange County firemen serviced the city during the week of the firemen's absence from their posts.

Another matter still to be heard by the city council is the consideration of Placentia disbanding its own fire service and joining that of Orange County. Preliminary studies have been received from the county, but as yet no cost figures, reported Norman Traub, the city's Public Safety Officer in charge of both police and fire personnel.

Ray Rhoads, assistant to Orange County Supervisor Chairman Ralph Diedrich of the third district, said that the list of specific services desired by the city of Placentia has not as yet been forwarded to the county, and that the county will respond to them as soon as the information is received.

Grievance procedures also are underway, Chief Traub stated, but none of the cases has been resolved. The fire fighters three-year memorandum of understanding currently in effect, outlines a set of processes for a grievance and also prohibits strikes, walk-outs and picketing.

The Fire Fighter's local union has in the courts a $15.5 million lawsuit against some members of the Placentia City Council and city staff administration over previous disagreements.

COUNCIL MEETING

The Placentia City Council will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 30, in the Conference Room at City Hall. Discussed will be Placentia's Bicentennial projects. The session is open to the public.

Placentia's American Division Big League team beat all comers last week to bring home Placentia Little League's first North Orange County trophy.

The team of 16 to 18 year olds won three out of four games with East La Habra and previously bested La Habra and Leffingwell.

The Big League team, under manager Don Manwill and coach, Frank Long, won 20 games over the season losing only two contests. Two pitchers, Bret Manwill and Ted Phillips each won 10 games and lost one.

The championship marks the first for Placentia, which has possibly the largest Little League in the world. The philosophy behind the local Little League effort has been cognizant of the players themselves rather than winning. the league faithfully enforces an 'everyone must play' rule.

The winning team members, many of whom changed vacation plans in order to play in the tournament, are part of a Placentia Big League effort which began only last year.

On the roster are: pitchers, Bret Manwill and Ted Phillips; catchers Rick Hayes and Dan Ruppe; first baseman, Jim Martin and Mike Byrne; second base, Greg Fredrickson and Craig Hazen; third base, Frank Meyers and short stop Dave Nagy.

Outfielders include Mark Ashford, Bob Lee, Ken Owens, Harlan Pasley and Dave Villanueva. Infielders are Ronn Bose and Scot Buxbaum.

Dr. Peterson Resigns

Dr. Barbara Peterson, Assistant Superintendent of Instructional Services of the Placentia Unified School District, Monday night tendered her resignation to the board of trustees, to accept a position in the Graduate School of Education at California State University, Fullerton.

Also resigning was Eugene Simms, Coordinator for Vocational Education, who has accepted the post of Assistant Dean of Instruction at Seattle Central Community College.

Burglaries

their losses, rather than sending officers to the scene of the crime, Traub explained. However, more officers will be placed in the field, he outlined.

Burglaries for the first six months of this year are 363 compared to 186 for the first six months of 1974.

Traub said that he will be requesting a resolution from the Placentia City Council "to wake people up to the fact that the courts are the ones causing the problem. Now, in the legislature," he added, "you can't get a law enforcement bill out of committee."

The burglary problem, Traub said, is prevalent in the general area, rising also in other cities.

Exchange Of Letters

Church And State

The Mayor's Opinion

Reverend James Nash, Pastor
St. Anthony Claret Parish
Anaheim

Dear Reverend Nash,

The purpose of this letter is to explain the recent action of the Placentia City Council with respect to the use of city owned buildings for religious services. The recent request of the Placentia Redevelopment Association for permission to celebrate Mass at the Chester Whitten Community Center on a regular basis prompted our attention to this matter. It is my understanding the the La Jolla area of our City is located within your Parish.

The City Council, acting upon the advice of our City Attorney, has determined that religious services will not be held in city owned buildings. This policy applies to all religions and is based upon the separation of Church and State found within the United States and California constitutions.

I want to assure all residents of the City that this is not an attempt to preclude use of public buildings by the community. Residents are welcome and encouraged to use the buildings for meetings and activities. We must insist however that the buildings are not utilized for religious services or instruction.

I am sure that you can understand and appreciate the constitutional basis of this position. The Placentia City Council, four of which are Catholic, carefully evaluated the request, and could not in good conscience permit community facilities to be utilized for religious services.

A copy of our City Attorney's legal opinion is attached for your review. Councilmen George De Jesus and Jack Gomez have expressed a willingness to meet with you or the members of your Parish affected by this decision. Please feel free to contact this office, if I can be of any assistance in establishing such a meeting or more fully explaining this decision.

Sincerely,
Robert B. Lyons
Mayor

Father Nash Replies

Mr. Robert B. Lyons
Mayor, City of Placentia

Dear Mr. Lyons:

Since a great many people in the La Jolla area of Placentia are interested in knowing the decision of the City Council of Placentia referring to renting the Community Center for one hour of religious service on Sunday mornings, I think it only fair to publish your letter and my reply.

If the Catholic people are willing to pay the same rent as every other group, how can the Council say they are doing us any favor? Is there a difference between renting from a city and a private company? Why speak of this as necessary because of separation of Church and State?

Your lawyer notes court decisions. There have been decisions pro as well as con. Supreme Court decisions said Blacks were not persons and that it was in interference with the rights of workers to ask them to join a union.

There are cities at the present time renting schools from the Catholic Church. Why should the opposite be wrong?

You would commit the Catholic people of the La Jolla area to the cost of raising at least part of the money to buy property, build, and furnish a building for one hour a week, when these people thought that the new Community Center was going to be available at a reasonable rent for this purpose.

Don't you think that the father and mother of a family are supposed to give first consideration to their spiritual welfare? Could not both the Church and the City of Placentia do the same for the people, old and young, in the Placentia area?

Can you please explain why the City Council of Placentia cannot rent the Community Center because it is against the law, and why the School Board of Placentia can rent us the school auditorium? Neither the logic nor the legal angle is clear here.

I am leaving on vacation today. Perhaps, we may anticipate an explanation of this matter upon my return.

Sincerely,
Reverend James Nash

Copley News Service

The big news in the sky--the Soviet-American space docking--kept most eyes glued to television screens and gave Americans a warm glow of good feeling. Some events on the ground, however, were causing not so good feelings. For example:

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had some harsh things to say about Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn. He described the Nobel Laureate's views as "a threat to peace," apparently because Solzhenitsyn has been warning Americans to be wary of Soviet intentions in detente.

Kissinger said, "If I understand the message of Solzhenitsyn, it is that the United States should pursue an aggressive policy to overthrow the Soviet system." That, of course, is not Solzhenitsyn's message. The message is "detente without illusions," but Kissinger seems to have decided to misunderstand it.

Kissinger's own message at his news conference, on the other hand, seemed to be that we can listen to Solzhenitsyn talk about the lack of freedom in the Soviet Union all right, so long as we don't take him very seriously, for he's only a writer after all.

He told reporters he recommended that President Ford not see the Russian author, yet rumors were flying that the White House had tried without success to arrange a Ford-Solzhenitsyn meeting, presumably to make up for its previous rejection of the idea (and Press Secretary Ron Nessen's implausible explanations) at the time Solzhenitsyn was in Washington to address a large AFL-CIO-hosted banquet.

Kissinger's defensiveness about the Solzhenitsyn matter appears to stem from concern over the fate of the delicate Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT II) negotiations now under way.

Solzhenitsyn warns that if detente is to work at all it must be on a quid pro quo basis, for the Soviets understand firmness but will exploit any sign of weakness.

This may seem a threatening view to Kissinger, who talks as if he believes that tiptoe diplomacy will be more effective with the Soviets.

If the final SALT II agreement is as much tilted to Soviet advantage as the Vladivostok proposals, Solzhenitsyn's warning could turn out to have been prophetic.

While the Soyuz-Apollo crews were shaking hands in space and everyone was proclaiming enduring friendship on the ground, the Soviets continued their efforts to subvert Portugal.

In the last few weeks they have sent 60 new KGB agents to Lisbon and have spent $12 million (since April) on the Portuguese Communists. Their interference in the internal affairs of our erstwhile Atlantic Alliance ally seems to be paying off.

Portugal has slipped another notch toward a military-Communist totalitarian government.

The two largest vote-getting parties in the spring election--the Socialists and the Popular Democrats (PPD)--quit the coalition government and took to the streets to protest the increasingly antidemocratic tendencies of the powerful Armed Forces Movement (AFM).

At first glance the protests seemed a hopeful sign, but the long-range outlook isn't good. Outside the government, the Socialists and the PPD will have an increasingly hard time functioning as organized political parties. And it takes organization to mount effective demonstrations.

The AFM, in fact, may choose to ignore the demonstrations until they evaporate. That's the way they handled the seizure of a Catholic church-owned radio station by a handful of leftist workers recently.

Protests. Demonstrations. Some backing and filling by the AFM. Outcome: the leftists still have the radio station.

All in all, the Kremlin must be smiling at recent events.

Residents Seek Help With Problems

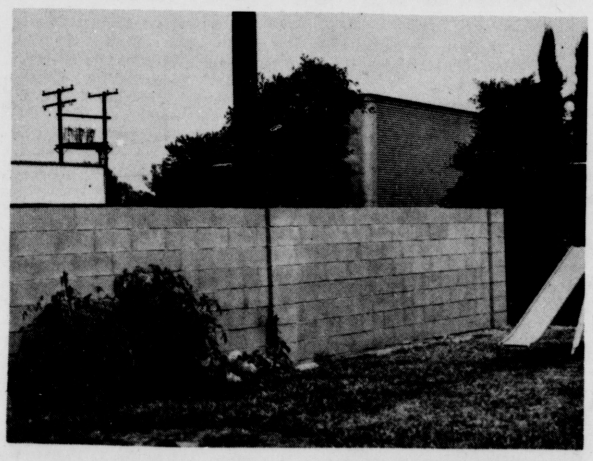
thought must not truly appreciate their plight. They had asked that a higher block wall be placed in back of their homes. What they got was the assurance that the wall would be raised two courses where that has not already been done and more trees will be added. Trees are evident on both sides of the drainage ditch but the sights and sounds come through the foliage.

The lights on the back of the market were a problem..."like spotlights," Adair confirms. "But they're fine now. In fact we're glad they're there." One house on Lewis Place has been burglarized twice and another once. Residents are fearful of prowlers coming over their back walls which present an easy access, even from the drainage ditch.

The neighbors feel their pleas weren't heard. The Placentia Planning Commission granted approval for the construction of three more buildings, some of which will be placed at a high level and will present a view to their homes. They feel a higher wall is a minimum safeguard.

The entire block has only kind words for the manager of the Pantry Market, who they believe is doing his best to alleviate a bad situation and they are sympathetic to the new owners of the shopping center, who recently bought it believing that everything was "according to code".



THE MILK RUN--a truck goes by the back yards of the Lewis Place homes, the cab visible to the left of the telphone pole. From this point the truck ramp elevates making trucks readily visible and audible.

But the rest of the situation is pure dissatisfaction. A spokesman for the owners of the shopping center estimated that a new high 600-foot wall down the alley would cost $15,000, including demolishing the old ones by hand and rebuilding a stronger wall so that it would carry the additional height. Neighbors found that estimate "a little high."

The neighborhood had not decided yet whether they will appeal the matter to the City Council, feeling the effort somewhat "hopeless." They also note with dismay, that while their troubles are mounting, "our taxes are still going up."

They are not looking forward to the new construction.

"I've planted a Sherwood Forest," one attractive young housewife complained, "and it hasn't helped a bit. "All I have now is a back yard full of trees."

The eight-acre shopping center is surrounded by single family homes and an elementary school. The new construction plans will add three buildings, bringing the total square footage of the center to 97,328 square feet of commercial space. The original center was established before the Lewis Place homes were built.

Students Rate Assemblymen

Orange County assemblymen gave widely different degrees of support to legislation supported by the Associated Students at the University of California, according to an analysis conducted by the California Student Democratic Coalition.

Assemblyman Paul Carpenter of Cypress, a Democrat, was the strongest Orange County supporter of A.S.U.C. bills, receiving an 80 per cent rating. Close behind were Assemblyman Richard Robinson, a Democrat, and Assemblyman Bruce Nestande, a Republican, with 70 per cent ratings.

Little support for A.S.U.C. bills was given by Orange County's three other Assemblymen who were among the least supportive of the A.S.U.C. in the state. Assemblymen John Briggs and Robert Burke, both Republicans, received 20 per cent ratings, whereas Assemblyman Robert Badham had the worst record in the State, obtaining a 0 per cent rating.

According to Barbara Bennet, Placentia Vice-President of the Student Democratic Coalition, "These bills were the only ones to have a full Assembly vote which had been endorsed by the Associated Students of the University of California. All were endorsed, except for AB 691 which was opposed.

Ms. Bennett, a student at California State University at Fullerton, commented that:

"It's interesting that Orange County not only had two Democratic Assemblymen with good voting records on student issues, but that Assemblyman Nestande had the best record of all Republicans in the state, while Assemblyman Badham, who has UCI in his district, had the worst voting record for a Republican."

The Student Democratic Coalition, which conducted the analysis, is a statewide student group which divides its efforts between lobbying on student related legislation and working for progressive candidates.

The group is based at UC Davis and has chapters throughout the state.

KATIE'S COLUMN or DOWN ON THE FARM by Kay Starr

Times must be terrible, a lot worse than ever. I came home to find that my little one (soon to join the ranks of teen-agers) had cleaned the top of her dresser. For months the junk stacked on top was nearing the ceiling and no amount of coaxing or threatening had made an impression.

And if the clean, neat dresser top wasn't enough, her bed was made. The discovery that she had changed the sheets almost put me over the brink.

The climax was walking into the closet to discover neatly aligned pairs (that's right, all matched) of shoes and everything hung on hangers.

The whole thing seems like there is a message here. What does she want? What do I have to do? How much will it cost me? Negative answers toall these, she just did it for something to do. Quick, the smelling salts.

Travel on the Orange County freeways isn't always my idea of fun, especially the Newport Freeway around 4:30 p.m. when it turns into one of those large long parking lots.

However, going by the Orange County Airport on several occasions lately has been delightful by catching a glimpse of the bi-planes and tri-planes buzzing overhead.

Those old planes swoop low over the freeway on the way to landing which stimulates the imagination to seeing the "Red Baron" with scarf flapping, goggles dusty and helmet snug to the head.

Closer to the ground, in fact right on the ground are the flocks of sheep that seem to be grazing what remains after the hay crop is baled.

What they can find to munch looks like pretty slim pickings, but there must be something because they are very busy about it.

A long line of cattle were taking their afternoon stroll along the hills adjacent to the San Diego Freeway. I wasn't sure, but could it be that they were playing "follow the leader"?

Meanwhile, back on the farm, I could use some leadership, particularly the Pied Piper type to lead the gophers to greener pastures. My older daughter even brought me another cat, all the way from Oakland, but no noticeable difference.

Those city cats just can't take the wilds of Yorba Linda--too pampered.

There should be a lot of deaf gophers at the farm though. "Snoopy" finds a fresh mound and barks the thing flat. It is truly amazing to see this three-legged dog dig after the gophers. He really isn't a bit hampered. Now if I could just get him to dig in a row, I could plant the trees a lot easier.

That old adage "a watched pot never boils", well, a watched pine cone never grows. Looks just the same this week. I think that I'm not going to look at it, and it is like a magnet, just have to peek.

MR. & MRS. BRADFORD JANEWAY

Corkum-Janeway Wedding

The Los Angeles Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon) was the setting for the marriage, July 11, of Miss Lorraine Ruth Corkum daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Collin Corkum, 18282 Timberlane Drive, Yorba Linda, and Mr. Bradford Kent Janeway, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Janeway of Garden Grove. Ralph King officiated.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Janeway attended Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. Mr. Janeway has completed one and one-half years of study in elecrical engineering at BYU and attends school while also teaching German on a part time basis at the church's Language Training Mission. His summer job has been at Alpha Beta Market.

Mrs. Janeway completed her studies at BYU this spring. She has a jamor in psychology and a minor in German. She has been employed by McDonald's and Transamerica Credit.

For the double ring ceremony the bride wore an all white dress, chiffon with sation underneath. It had sheer chiffon sleeves, high neck made of sheer, cummerbund under the bodice, widening and dropping to a V in the back to meet the bustle. The slight train was two-circled with a flare from the knee. There was hand apliqued lace on the sleeves, bodice, skirt and flare. The dress was worn with a train length veil, also lace appliqued and white lace slippers. The dress was hand made by the bride's mothers who also designed it from seven patterns which she had adapted and consolidated into one.

The matron of honor, Susan Scott, wore a mint green sheer chiffon long sleeved blouse with matchiing camisole of the same color. The long A-line skirt, chiffon witha satin underskirt was also mint green.

Mr. Robert Hightower was the best man.

The bride's mother wore a lavender dress with a diamond shaped neck, flared long sleeves and the dress was ruffled at the bottom. The groom's mother was attired in a light mint green sleeveless dress with a sheer sleeved overjacket of the same color. It was accented with pearls on the overjacket.

Special guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Scott and Family from Calgary, Alberta, Canada, whose daughter was the matron of honor; Mr. and Mrs. John Banford and daughter, Lisa, from Lake Bluff, Ill.

Genie Cawley from Denver, Colo. attended the guest book and Virginia Deland, Jolair Robinson, Rena Baker, Terry Lobaugh and Sherry Nichols. all from the Mormon Church and friends of the bride's family, assisted with various aspects of the wedding and reception.

The reception was held at the Corkum home where the bride and groom cut a seven-tiered cake iced in green with each layer a different type of cake. It was made by the bride's sister-in-law, Billie Griffith. Heart and rose shaped mints were made by the bride and her matron of honor. Billie Griffith and Pattie Opper served as hostesses for the reception. Brian Griffith, the bride's brother, was the guitar player in the band, "The Sound Investment," which furnished music at the reception.

For the honeymoon, spent in Pine Cove by Idyllwild, the bride wore a white below the knee length dress with a scalloped collar and sleeves which were short and cuffed. There were white embroidered roses on the bodice.

Yorba Adds Trophies

Band members at Bernardo Yorba Junior High School in the Placentia Unified School District added two new trophies to their growing collection through summer parade competition.

The latest addition was a first place trophy won in the junior high division of San Clemente's La Cristinita Parade this month (July). The 45 members, directed by Gary Wiedeman, marched two and a half miles in the 430-unit parade.

The group also came home with a first place trophy at the Independence Day Parade in West Covina. Following that performance, the band returned to Yorba Linda to play a concert for senior citizens.

Yorba's band has only been marching for a year and already has become a consistent winner, bringing home several trophies during the past school year.

Drum major is Harlan Harris, and assistant drum majors are Andy Cross and Cher Sanguinet, who also is the mascot. Banner leader is Joni Young.

House Builds: Site Approval Comes Later

Site development approval was awarded J. Curtis Davis, 832 East Bastanchury Road, Placentia Tuesday night, for a house already buiding at 2145 Kathryn Way in a civic center overlay district.

No explanation was given at the planning commission meeting as to why the house was already in progress when the petition submitted by staff requested that the planning commission require that "precise plans shall be submitted and approved before building permits are issued."

Alpha Schedules Sale

A call for furniture, clothes, books, white elephants, discards and even food has been sounded by the Alpha Center for its upcoming rummage sale. The private, non-profit organization will pick up any donations by residents in the area.

Mrs. Sonia Mittlestedt who is handling the rummage sale may be reached at 996-4690 or call 993-4400 for free pick-up service. The sale will be held August 16 and 17 in the parking lot of the Calvary Church at the corner of Bradford and Chapman in Placentia.

Proceeds of the sale will be used by the Alpha Center for its counseling services to the youth of the area. Other services provided by Alpha Center for the youth include counseling, an employment service, a drug abuse program and an early intervention program geared for the adolescent who may be headed for problems.

Mrs. Mittlestedt said, "It is a great way to help a lot of young people and clean out your garage at the same time. You know what is junk to one person is another's treasure."

Chairman of the Alpha Center Board is the Reverend John Tebay. Further information on the Center may be obtained by calling 993-4400.

HORSE TALES

by Joan Johnson

I was a guest at the June meeting of the Horse Committee and found out all kinds of interesting information.

It sounds like the proposed arena in the old settling basin, on Buena Vista near Ohio, will soon become a reality. Present plans are to open the north gates of the basin, erect a barricade of some type at that point to eliminate the entrance of motor vehicles, do enough grading to make the site usable for working horses, and keep it open for use by our local horsemen during the summer.

Starting in the fall, the National Guard has volunteered to bring in their heavy equipment and complete the grading work. When they have finished their work, the arena itself will start to take shape.....but not without some help from interested parties!

The agreement with the city is that this arena is to be built with strictly volunteer labor, so if any of you horse lovers are looking for an excuse to get rid of some excess energy, here's your chance. Give Jerry Gorman a call at 524-2601 and offer your services.

Also, it would be a nice gesture if the horse owners who plan to use this arena would take the time to drop a note of thanks to the city in appreciation of this "multi-purpose outdoor arena".

Yorba Linda has been in need of an equestrian facility for ages, and thanks to the city, it looks as if we'll finally have it!

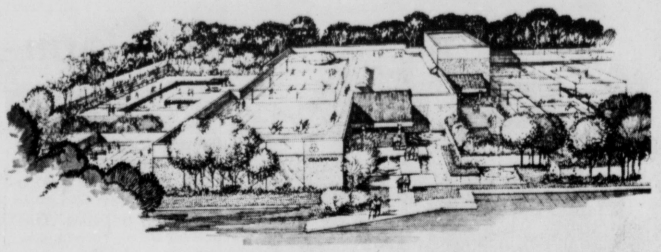
Another big thank you is due the city for their very prompt action in correcting a potentially hazardous situation involving the old railroad trestle along Imperial near Casa Loma.

A sturdy bridge has been erected as a means of getting around the trestle without having to ride out into the street.

There appears to be a new and rapidly developing problem involving horses in our two local parks. So far, most of the riders have been children and some of them have been downright nasty when asked to remove their horses from the park area.

There is an attempt being made to post these two parks against horses, after which time violators will be cited.

In the meantime, though, I urge these riders to please refrain from taking their horses into park areas. There are plenty of other places to ride. Please leave the parks for "people enjoyment". OK?



UNIQUE FACILITY--An architect's rendering of the new Brea Olympiad now under construction on Central Avenue in Brea. Termed "The Super Sports Spa", the facility is a complete recreation, health and sports center in one convenient location.

Olympiad To Serve Area Folks

The Brea Olympiad, a complete recreation, health and sports center in one convenient location, is now under construction on Central Ave. in Brea.

Scheduled for opening early in 1976, the sports and fitness center, is currently accepting charter memberships.

The Olympiad will be totally family oriented. Fully equipped, it will offer several activities which are both familiar and introductory to this area. One example of the latter is the game of platform tennis, an Eastern sport played with wooden racquets on a platform.

Twelve handball/racquet courts will be available for use. Health spa facilities are designed for men, women and teens. Between 12 and 15 tennis courts will be in the original plan with the possibility of expansion to 30 courts.

Indoor facilities will encompass 64,000 square feet upon completion of the facility. This is a $3.2 million project which includes a separate medical evaluation unit, medically supervised by licensed physicians to assist people with heart or other medical conditions to follow the proper fitness program.

For further details consult the advertisement in this edition.

Horse Show Sat.

The El Rodeo Riding Club of Yorba Linda will hold a Horse Show on Saturday night, August 2, on the Show Grounds in Carbon Canyon.

For further information call Bob Kelley at 996-3984.

Summer Sessions Swingin'

McFadden Elementary School in Placentia is one of the six sites of this year's Summer Enrichment Program, designed to provide educational artistic and cultural enrichment to bilingual elementary children.

Activities include pantomime classes, balet-folklorico classes, cultural awareness classes on other countries and cultures, films that combine entertainment with instruction, arts and crafts, and field trips to the beach and the Orange County Fair.

S.E.P. also provides academic instruction to children in kindergarten through 7th grade. All classes are supervised by bilingual teachers who have come to the program through the elementary school district. Instructional assistance is provided by high school students serving as tutors. Students from the Fullerton College Educational Opportunity Program serve as assistant coordinators. The practice of high school and college students teaching elementary children has proven beneficial to both. The tutor, by assisting the child, gains confidence in his abilities as an instructional assistant and as a contributing member in his community. The child receives help in areas he has difficulty with in school.

Many community agencies provide assistance to S.E.P. Manpower pays the tutors and the North Orange County Regional Occupational Program provides teaching materials and instructor Ida Gallo, who assists the tutors with their lesson plans, teaching techniques, and other job-related skill development.

Planners Delay Tract

Development of a 40 unit condominium at the southwest corner of Lakeview and Mariposa Avenues, adjacent to half-acre estates in Yorba Linda, brought protests from that city and a continuation of the public hearing before Placentia planning commissioners to the upcoming August 12 meeting.

Objections pivoted around the density of the project and the number of parking spaces for the four-acre development.

Applicant for the development is Charles Hermansen of Westminster.

Also of concern at the hearing was a mature line of Eucalyptus trees, within the public right-of-way. Phillip Paxton, Planning Director for Yorba Linda, who spoke at the hearing, requested that the trees be retained, topped and cleaned.

The Yorba Linda City Council previously reviewing the development, had requested that Paxton make their opinions known at the planning commission hearing.

Delton Quillin Completes Air Training

Airman Delton L. Quillin II, son of Mrs. Beatrice Quillin of 207 Louise Drive, Placentia, has been assigned to Plattsburgh AFB, N.Y., for duty in the administrative field after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Adelines Sing; Band Plays

The 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing Band from El Toro will be featured on Sunday, August 3, at 2 p.m. in Kraemer Memorial Park as part of the Placentia Recreation Department's Summer Band Festival.

The Marine Band plays a repertoire of music ranging from regimental to rock. They have entertained thousands of people each year at appearances throughout Southern California, and the Western United States.

Generally wearing the traditional dress blue uniform, their arrangements run the gamut from Beethoven to the stage band and from Broadway show tunes to Sousa Marches. Included within the band is a 16 piece combo for entertaining at military receptions and other functions.

Following the band's performance will be the appearance of the North Orange County Chapter of the Sweet Adelines, Inc. There are presently over 600 chapters in this international organization that now totals more than 24,000 members.

Members are women of all ages who are dedicated to the art of four-part harmony, and is open to any women who like to sing in harmony.

This North Orange County Chapter was honored this spring with third place medals in the annual regional competition, held this year in Pasadena. Thirty-two choruses competed.

Placentia families are invited to bring their families and friends to the Park to enjoy an outstanding afternoon of music.

Summer School Unique

More than 300 children in the Placentia Unified School District are taking advantage of a unique summer school program which combines efforts of five agencies to provide classes from reading to swimming.

For the first time, the schools are running "satellite" programs n the City of Placentia's new Whitten and Gomez Community Centers. The program for more than 100 children in the Gomez Center in Atwood is complete, under the leadership of Audrey Hatch, summer school principal for Glenview Elementary School.

The Whitten program is part of the McFadden summer school, and more than 200 children circulate between the two adjoining sites, supervised by McFadden principal David Heil.

Both principals agree that the program is "one of the most exciting educational experiences" either has worked in, primarily because so many people are working together to make it successful.

Working with the Placentia school district are the City of Placentia's Recreation and Maintenance Department, The Fullerton College Educational Opportunities Program Services (EOPS), Orange County Manpower Commission and North Orange County Regional Occupational Program (ROP).

In addition to Hatch at Atwood, on-site coordinators are Jaime Gomez from EOPS and Mike Ledbetter from ROP. The staff is composed of teachers Roy Duran and Celso Rodriguez, certified swimming instructors and arts and crafts teachers from the Recreation Department and numerous young people in EOPS and ROP who are working as aides.

Children rotate their classes in swimming, arts and crafts, learning skills and Mexican culture.

Heading the McFadden/Whitten Center program with Heil are Manuel Maturino from EOPS and Ida Gallo from ROP. Teachers are Mary Ellen Grill, Sato Muro and Kelley O'Rourke.

Students there spend an hour and a quarter each morning swimming and working on craft projects at the community center, then walk to the school for individual and small group tutoring and art work with 54 EOPS aides under the supervision of teachers. Field trips are planned for San Juan Capistrano Mission, the Orange County Fair and the beach.

"This cooperative effort allows us to offer instruction in areas we could never work in by ourselves," Heil noted. "And the children, who don't have to choose between the City swimming pool and the classroom, are having a wonderful time."

Family To Live In New City

The many friends of Rosann Roberts Grzesiowski extend best wishes as she and her three children move to Lake Havasu City, Arizona, to join her husband Gary in a new business venture.

Kona Kokoa Pool Association held their annual summer evening party this last Saturday. Members and guests were treated to a buffet supper and dancing and just plan good fun. I don't think anyone got thrown in the pool but everyone had a great time.

Local gal Thelma Klebba has a growing concern...her business called "The Bare Facts" caters to the bikini crowd and she is doing very well. It is always great to see a woman do well in a creative business. She says that she can fit anyone and she does a good job of it too!

The Sharp family recently returned from a three week vacation. Traveling across the United States in a camper they visited New York, New Orleans and points in between. Daughter Susie said they had to replace tires on the camper so you can imagine how many miles they put on. It was a good trip visiting many interesting places and seeing friends and relatives along the way.

Be the first ones in line to eat free ice crean at the Yorba Linda Recreation Department's annual "All The Ice Cream You Can Eat Day". This event is limited to the first 150 children that arrive for the 1:30 p.m. party. Ages 3-13 will be welcome at the Yorba Linda Jr. High School. Last year they turned away a lot of people, so be early!

Anaheim Community Band will perform on Friday August 1st at 8 p.m. at Pearson Park in Anaheim. The concerts are open to the public and there is no charge.

How exciting that our Yorba Linda Little League All Stars have won the District! Now they go on to area competitions. It is always great having a winning team!

If you've got a pretty slim build and you want to float in water, you don't have what might be called a "fat chance". There's a definite reason for this, you see.a fat person will usually float more easily in water that a lean one, simply because he displaces more water.

Your obese friend is really lighter in water than you are because his body fat is lighter than your muscle and bone and there is more of it. And there's not much you can do about it...except to gain a lot of weight. And most fat people will tell you it's better to stay slim and sink!

To buoy up your spirits when you feel like you're all at sea, come to our pharmacy where you'll alwaays get the very highest quality drugs as specified in your doctor's prescription. You're invited to apply for a LINDA VISTA PHARMACY charge account...so convenient! Or, you may use your major credit card, if you prefer.

HANDY HINT: Ordinary baking soda can be used to extinguish small fires quickly.

COMMENTS FROM CALVARY
Dr. R.W. Cunningham

"NEW STATE TEXT-BOOKS OMIT" BIBLICAL CREATION THEORY.

The State Board of education adopted new science and social science textbooks for California school children last week. In spite of strong protest from fundamental bible believers, the Biblical account of creation failed to get into the social science books although evolution was included.

Governor Brown's liberal appointees have been in general opposition to the Biblical account. These books are made available to about 3 million Pupils in California's public schools from the kindergarten through the eighth grade. This is another reason why Calvary Baptist is opening Calvary Christian school in September.

Students Win Trophies

Industrial arts students at Tuffree Junior High School in Placentia came home with the lion's share of trophies from the junior high shop exhibits at the Orange County Fair.

The seventh and eighth graders garnered 14 individual awards in their competition, according to their teacher, Harvey Callaghan. The next highest number of ribbons won by a county junior high was 5, he added.

Two students, Tom Grisso and Jim March, earned three ribbons each, Grisso won first places for a wine rack and a wood wall planter and a third for a credenza entered in the floor furniture category. March brought home firsts for a carved wood fish and a clock cabinet and a second for wood and metal candle holders.

Other first place winners from Tuffree were Dennis Rosenthal, who won for a large tray in the lathe turning category, and Jim Wolfe, who entered candle holders in the wood and metal division.

Winning second place ribbons were Scott Lauderdale for a woodcarved fish, Brent Norcutt for a macrame wall hanging in the junior division and Chuck Shargent, who made a metal wood caddy.

Third place ribbons were won by Steve Bolger for a wood leaf dish, Mike Pratte for a lathe-turned salad bowl and Rajindar Singh, also for a salad bowl.

Last year, Collaghan's students at Tuffree cornered eight awards for wood and metal work at the fair.

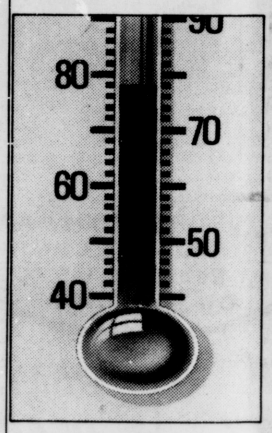
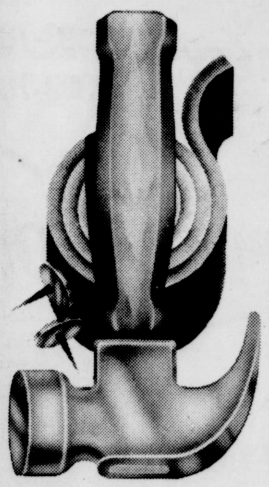
7 WAYS TO CUT YOUR AIR CONDITIONING COSTS.

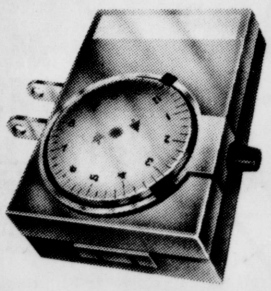
1. KEEP TEMPERATURE AT 78°
During hot summer months, you can cut air conditioning costs substantially by cooling a room—or your whole house—no lower than 78°. It could cost about 30% less for air conditioning if you keep the temperature at 78° instead of 70°. If you use a room air conditioner, hang a thermometer on the wall. Check it to see that the room temperature drops no lower than 78°. Remember: air conditioning is not to make you cold—just comfortable.



2. INSULATE YOUR HOME
If you do not have insulation in your attic—or if you have too little—you could be using up to twice the energy necessary for air conditioning your house. (More energy to heat it, too.) Insulation can be blown into most attics. It's an investment which merits your consideration. For information, see your local insulation contractor. And don't forget to weatherstrip doors and windows.



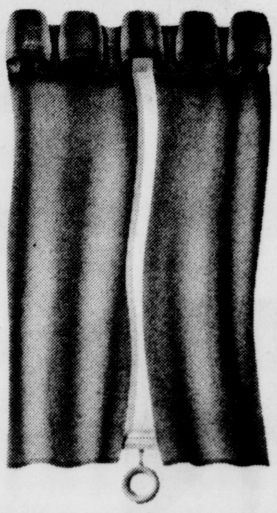
3. CONSIDER AN AUTOMATIC TIMER
Timer attachments are available that will turn off your room air conditioner when you go to work and turn it on before you come home.



4. INVESTIGATE AN ENERGY-SAVING UNIT
If you're in the market for a room air conditioner, compare the Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) numbers. The higher the number shown, the more cooling you get from the electricity you use.

5. COOL ONLY ROOMS IN USE
If you have a room unit, keep all doors closed to the room you're cooling. Of course, no matter what system you use, whenever you air condition keep the outside doors and windows closed throughout the house.

6. KEEP THE HEAT OUT
When the children (or family pet) go out, don't forget to close the door. Keep the windows closed, too. And draw your draperies and blinds. Outside awnings or other sun screens will also reduce your cooling needs.



7. KEEP EQUIPMENT CLEAN
Clean accessible parts, but be careful not to damage them. Check filters every month and clean or replace as needed.

MAKE EVERY KILOWATT COUNT.

The cost of electricity has been going up, primarily because of the soaring cost of the foreign oil we must buy to burn in generating plants. The increasing costs of oil and the additional amounts we have had to buy are responsible for the total increase in the price of electricity since last summer.

Your air conditioning could use more energy than any other home appliance this summer. So use it wisely. Conserve. For other ways to conserve, write for our free booklet: "Conservation," Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, California 91770.

The winning pitcher for District 56 was Kevin Toohey and the losing pitcher was Steve Natsuhava. District 56 won by a score of 9 to 6.

In the second and deciding game District 29 & 46 came back and shut out District 56 2 to 0, allowing one hit by pitcher Kevin Courtois. District 29 & 46 scored the winning 2 runs on fielding errors by 56. Pitching for District 56 was Paul Peterson who put forth a good effort.

LL Stars Advance

Yorba Linda's Little League All Stars captured the District 56 Championship on Wednesday, July 23 by coming from behind to beat East Whittier's Pioneer ball club 5 to 4.

Pioneer jumped on Yorba Linda for their 4 runs in the first inning on a grand slam HR by J. Garcia. Garcia, who also pitched for Pioneer, held Yorba Linda scoreless for the first 4 innings.

In the 5th inning Yorba Linda put it all together, scoring their 5 runs on a five hit attack. Yorba Linda's scoring started with a bang after a clutch line drive by Steve Williams, Dave Mesa put it in the centerfield bleachers for a 2 run HR.

With one down Paul Cunningham ripped a shot off the third basemans glove for a single. Cunningham was forced out at second on a disputed fielders choice which put Scott Groot on first.

Chris Milauckas reached first on an error which put men on 1st and 2nd. Darin Atchley singled to center scoring Groot. Dondo Evans singled on a hard shot that careened off Pioneer's shortstops glove.

Evans single scored Milauckas and Atchley for the winning runs. Yorba Linda's 5 runs proved enough combined with Groot's sixth inning pitching. Groot struck out 9 while allowing only 4 hits.

Yorba Linda's win advances them to Sectional Tournament which began Tues. July 28 at the Buena Park American Little League Field. If Yorba Linda continues to win they will play at Buena Park on Thursday and Saturday.

Police Are On The Right Beat

Placentia Police Association remained in first place and moved one-half game ahead of idle Alph Beta as they pounded out 15 hits enroute to a 12-4 win over Old Time Pizza (2-3) in the Monday night Placentia Recreation Department's men's Slo-Pitch League.

William Decker led the charge with a double, triple and homerun while driving in two runs for the night.

Old Time Pizza took an early lead in the first inning on a two-run homerun by Jim LaGraffe. The only other bright spot was a solo homerun by Butch Allen in the fifth inning.

In the only other game of the evening Willard Custom Cabinets (4-1) and also one-half game behind the leaders scored ten times in the first two innings to win going away over winless Placentia Nazarene Church 18-6.

Alpha Beta (4-1) and State Farm Insurance (1-4) were not scheduled to play.

Chargers Say Thanks

"We are happy to bring another championship to Placentia," Art Goodman, owner-manager of the Placentia Chargers, women's softball team, said enthusiastically this week.

"We want to thank everybody and especially the fans who supported us."

The Chargers finished their season with a 40 to 28 record.

Goodman said the soft ball team is especially grateful to Dick Samp, Director of Recreation and Maintenance Services for Placentia, to Mayor Robert Lyons and other members of the city council.

Nets Have More Eggs In Basket

The Nets are currently leading the sixth and seventh grade basketball league, sponsored by the Placentia Recreation Department.

With four games remaining to be played, the Nets are holding onto a two game lead over the Spirits. In third place are the Pacers, followed by the fourth place Colonels.

As of July 17, with 4 games remaining the Nets are in first place in the league. Leading the scoring is Mike Pizzutello of the 2nd place Spirits with 69 points. In second place in scoring is Wally Lundquist with 60 points.

Leading the first place Nets is Greg Archuletta with 55 points. The players on the Nets are Jeff Ames, Greg Archuletta, David Cole, J.P. Lybeck, Jason Hill, Ronnie Rehnquist, Greg Kruger and Ken Baxter.

The games are played at Tynes Gym in Tuffree Hill Park on Tuesdays and Thursday mornings.

Jeff Lawson In Nationals

Jeff Lawson, Placentia, El Dorado High School high jumper, will be among sixteen young California athletes who will leave from Los Angeles International Airport on Monday, August 11 to compete in the National Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympic Track meet, to be held at Cornell University in Ithaca, New York.

The four-day nationals - set for August 8 through 11 - will bring together top young athletes from all 50 states, competing in swimming, judo, gymnastics, trampoline, synchronized swimming, and wrestling as well as eight major tract and field events.

The California contingency will be all track and field competitors who took first place in their respective events at the AAU's Region 13 Junior Olympics held Saturday, July 19 at Porterville College's Jamison Stadium.

The students, ranging in age from 14 to 17, are as follows, including their respective home towns and areas of competition: Tony Hicks, Daly City, 120 yard high hurdles; Ron Kennedy, Daly City, 100 yard dash; Jeff Sexton, Compton, 440 yard dash; Brian Russell, Studio City, 880 yard dash; Mike Dambroski, Northridge, one mile race walk; Ray Rubio, Madera, one mile run; Ken Vasquez, Burlingame, long jump; Jeff Lawson, Placentia, high jump; and Steve Montgomery, Susanville, 12-pound shot put.

Noting the absence of swimming, diving, and judo competitors who will be going to the nationals from Region 13, coach Don Cavadas, of Porterville expressed hope that Porterville's two new olympic-size swimming pools will be the catalyst for AAU and other athletic organizations to begin a comprehensive water sports program for area youths.

"All it takes," said Kavadas, "is for someone with the time, desire and ability to coach and we'd be seeing our young people at state and national water sports events as well as track and field."

He added that judo and trampoline are gaining momentum annually at the junior high and high school levels and that experienced leadership is all that is keeping these events from being included in athletic curriculm throughout the state.

JEFF LAWSON--of El Dorado High School holds the world records for both 14 year olds and 15 year olds in the decathlon and went to the state CIF in the high jump this year as a sophmore. He has a decathlon in New York scheduled for his next major competition in that event.

Board OKs Church In Gym

The Placentia Unified School District Board of Trustees Monday night confirmed the use of the McFadden Elementary School Gymnasium by residents of the La Jolla neighborhood who wish to use it on Sundays for Catholic church services.

Salvador Zavala, vice president of the board, who gave the report, said that the building would be made available for a year for the minimum fee of $28 for the time on Sunday. The original fee named was $42.

The parishioners have been refused the use of the Chester Whitten Community Center, owned by the city of Placentia, for the weekly services.

Zavala continued: "If we as a public agency let them have the use of the facility, I can't see any distinction why the city council, which is another public agency, just the way we are, why they refused."

"The school board has allowed the use of the facilities to many other religious groups here in the district. This isn't the first time," Zavala concluded.

City Submits Illegal Alien Policy

The resolution, sent back to committee by a unanimous voice vote of the League of Cities Division, Thursday, estimates that 8 million illegal aliens are currently in the United States and one half million in Southern California: "the impact upon the economy, resulting from the loss of jobs for residents and the flow of dollars out of the country, is staggering."

Also, "Aliens have become involved in a disproportionate number of crimes and the presence of the illegal alien does not in reality benefit the alien, the society or the economy."

The resolution continues: "The Federal Government has reserved unto itself the authority to apprehend and arrest the illegal alien and the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service is too understaffed and underbudgeted to effectively enforce our present laws."

The resolution then suggests the following action:

1. Massive expenditures should be used to effectively block the entry of the illegal alien rather than to deal with him once he is here. Money spent on prevention is better than money spent on a cure.

2. Develop coordination and communication between all agencies that deal with aliens. Applications for Social Security enrollment, driver's license, welfare, etc., should be denied unless the applicant is in the country legally. Furthermore, the Immigration and Naturalization Service should be advised of all cases where the applicant cannot prove beyond doubt his or her legal right to be in this country.

3. Employers must be penalized when they knowingly employ illegal aliens. This is the basis of the Rodino Bill now before Congress. If the penalties are severe enough, the alien will not be able to find work and will have no reason to enter the country.

4. Provide for the active prosecution of those exploiters who smuggle aliens across the border. Penalties must be severe enough to take the profit out of such an operation.

5. Vigorously enforce existing laws to make this country an unattractive refuge for the illegal alien.

6. If the Federal Government is unable to enforce its area of responsibility, local agencies should be permitted to enforce such laws and be reimbursed for the expense of processing aliens.

A segment of the protest came from the Human Relations Commission, a segment of Orange County government, in a statement by Commission Chairman Amin David, Jr., which says, "The current resolution as it reads supports vague and general concerns which if not consciously checked will encourage an undesirable amount of civil rights violations by local governments against anyone who may appear to be Mexican or Latin."

Mayor Jess Perez of Orange, who is also President of the Orange County League of California Cities, handed his gavel to a resolutions chairman to preside on the resolution stating: "Obviously this is a sensitive, far reaching, volatile issue that affects not only Orange County but the entire state of California and the entire United States.

The resolution, presented by Mayor Robert Lyons of Placentia, with Placentia Councilman Jack Gomez and Robert Langer also in attendance, was protested by the American GI Forum spokesman, Al Serrato.

Mayor Lyons in his presentation before the league, explained that the conclusion after the Placentia study was that illegal aliens are being exploited by Anglos and Chicanos and are being forced to live immorally and in physically degrading conditions.

The primary thrust of the proposal, the mayor stated "is to get INS on the stick. It's not an attack on local citizens...in fact it is in support of local citizens."

Russ Barrios, Director of Casa Placentia, one of the groups in attendance, said following the meeting, which was held at the Friedemann Banquet Hall in Orange, that: "I don't totally object to the whole resolution. I would go along with getting the naturalization service to do their job. It's a very touchy thing."

"From the resolution," Barrios continued, "they are asking that a bounty be put on illegal aliens. They are saying that they want to go out and find and put special efforts into finding illegal aliens and be reimbursed per individual for what they find. That's reducing another human being down to the status of an animal."

Barrios said that his organization, Casa Placentia, which is supported by taxpayers money and a grant from the Methodist Church, does not discriminate against anyone coming to them for help. "I don't think constitutionally or morally we can turn them down and say, 'I'm sorry, you will have to go elsewhere'. Our job is to meet human needs. Sure we are going to service a number of illegal aliens but that is not our target area."

"There are a lot more pressing problems in Placentia," Barrios concluded, "our heroin problem is outrageous."

The League of California Cities, Orange County Division, is scheduled to consider the proposal at their next regular meeting on August 14.

School Merger "Up To Fullerton"

might be harmful to PUSD either fiscally or educationally.

In further clarification, Tynes added: "Fullerton Union High School District would have to agree to accept the base revenue of the Placentia Unified District during this transition period (phasing high school students out of Troy High School in Fullerton into Placentia schools) or some other alternative that wouldn't put a financial burden on our district.

"And that all properties owned by Fullerton would be transferred to the Placentia district." At stake is a 40-acre high school site within the city of Yorba Linda and owned jointly by Yorba Linda and Fullerton. The computed value of the property is $600,000 but to replace it would now cost around $2 million, Dr. John Mullender, Associate Superintendent of PUSD estimated.

"We would have to have an agreement," Tynes continued, "that any future buildings would have to go along the combined recommendations of the plans of the two districts (Yorba Linda and Placentia), and that any updating of programs or buildings in either district would have to fit into a priority schedule. But I think the most important thing now is that we get the study completed."

"It is too late to get this on the November election, due to the fact that the Fullerton board does not meet until August 4," Tynes explained.

Some members of the PUSD board appeared reluctant to be held to any agreements. Trustee John Press stated: "I see no need to become involved in terms and conditions at this point."

Mrs. Jean Pappas: "We would like to know what the status is with the Yorba Linda board. They have new board members. Is the feeling still high on annexation?"

Superintendent Tynes encouraged "getting one thing on the table. Fullerton has a big stake in this. If they say no, then it gives Yorba Linda the alternative of unifying within their own boundaries. I think that this thing could be dragged out for four or five years unless Fullerton comes face to face with that problem...Also Fullerton has declining enrollment....Any communication we give to them should force the issue some way or other," Tynes suggested.

President of the PUSD board, Dr. William Yates asked: "How can we qualify this? How can we make it clear to all concerned that the matter of the annexation is not decided by us as yet?"

Tynes answered that the study is essential. "Otherwise there is no way we can make any decision."

Kathy Baker, a member of the Yorba Linda board, in the audience explained. "If we unify within our own boundaries, we don't have to have Fullerton's permission...We feel we are at a stalemate with Fullerton now."

Trustee John Balducci added that if the study shows an adverse affect on the Placentia taxpayers, "I would be inclined to forget the whole thing."

The Yorba Linda School Board is expected to consider the problem at its next meeting.

Lester Semans, 75 Succumbs To Illness

Lester Melvin Semans, 75, Placentia resident, who for 37 years was in charge of agricultural operations for the Chapman Family, died Saturday at St. Jude's Hospital, Fullerton, after a lingering illness.

Funeral mass will be said at 10 a.m. Wednesday, July 30 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Placentia following the Rosary Tuesday night at the McAulay and Wallace Mortuary Chapel in Fullerton. Burial will be at the Holy Sepulcher Cemetery in Orange.

Semans, a long time resident of Placentia, was born August 17, 1899 in Streator, Illinois and spent his early years in Quincy, California in the lumber industry. In 1928 he married Winifred Wilber of Fullerton, who survives him. After five years in San Francisco where he worked for the Mack Truck Company, he moved to Fullerton and became associated with the Chapman operations.

A son, William Lester was born in 1936. He is survived by his widow, of the Placentia home; a brother Vernon Semans, of Oakland and his son and daughter-in-law, William and Diane and five grandchildren of Yucaipa, California.

Cosmopolitans To Sponsor

Area clubs, businesses, groups, and individuals are still being sought as participants in the 3rd Annual Easter Seal Tournathon, a benefit table tennis tournament and marathon try for the Guiness World Book of Records.

The Tournathon, to take place at the Royal Inn of Anaheim, will start at 6 p.m. on August 6 and run continuously 'round-the-clock through playoff finals on Sunday, August 10.

More than 450 players are expected to participate in the all-day, all-night, 5-day event. While individuals can sign up to play as part of a team, sponsors are also providing teams of 5 members to play in two-hour segments during the 96-hour event. A two-hour segment requires a $50 donation, with all proceeds going to benefit the Easter Seal operated non-profit Rehabilitation Institute of Orange County (RIO).

To date, approximately 30 sponsors have registered their teams for the Tournathon, including the Placentia-Yorba Cosmopolitan Club.

Five table tennis tournament tables will be set up in the Monopoly Room of the Royal Inn for the event. In addition, there will be two marathon tables, one celebrity table, and additional tables for members of the audience to try their skill if they wish.

As an added feature, special guests will be appearing throughout the event. These will include members of the California Angels, celebrities, California Sun, Rams, and Yankees, as well as leading Orange County deejays, Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus performers, Lucie Arnaz, and others.

A display of classic cars also will be on exhibit for viewers, a silent auction will be held, and free prize drawings and other entertainment have been scheduled throughout the continuous five-day-and-night event.

Persons or groups wishing to play in or sponsor a five-person team for the Tournathon benefit are invited to write or call Tournathon Coordinator, Ginney Reid at the Rehabilitation Institute of Orange County, 1800 East La Veta Avenue, Orange, CA 92666; telephone 633-7400.

Several years ago the State of California, using their police powers, purchased and tore down a little Catholic church that was in the way of the 57 Freeway. The small, mostly Spanish, congregation were paid the miserly sum of $10,000.

Since then the congregation has met in various homes and buildings. Most recently they have used Placentia's community buildings in La Jolla and Atwood. No one has publicly objected, but according to a legal opinion of Placentia's City Attorney it is against the law based on the separation of church and state.

It's funny isn't it, when it comes to obscenity it seems the law works in favor of the peddlers of smut, and we hear a lot about freedom of expression; but when it comes to worshipping God in simple and meaningful services the laws work against just such beliefs as this nation was founded upon.

Something is wrong someplace when citizens can't use their community buildings which were built with their tax dollars for spiritual inspiration. I am not a Catholic but its hard to justify taking away their church with one hand and denying them the use of a substitute building with the other.

There is no doubt the City Attorney and City Council of Placentia are following the letter of the law by denying the use of any public buildings for any religious purpose but it doesn't make it any more palatable.

Private groups, clubs and organizations may use the community buildings and it seems to me that the churches should be entitled to the same courtesy. Laws are made by men and can be changed by men.

Don't Scold!

It takes seven praises to make up for one criticism according to one behavorial scientist. It's hard to remember, though, when the kids forget to pick up.

Scoring is the same as in World Team Tennis and the comulative total determines the winner.

The Placentia team was coached by Mary Mras and Glenda Salas was team captain. Members of the team were: Steve Panagotacos, Sami El-Sadin, George Verdugo, Greg Salas, Daphne Panagotacos, Anita Salas, Dana Vaught, Kathy Mras, Susan Kychenthal, Roxanne Johnson, Deedee Vaught, Paul Bopp, Mark Salas, Tom Young, Tim Dulalde, Peter Rosenthal and Jeff Yee.

Junior Team Tennis, now in its third year, is represented in each city with a World Team Tennis franchise, and five to seven leagues comprise each local district with up to twelve teams in each league.

It is estimated that 10,000 young players are expected to participate this year alone, according to Executive Director John Troll.

The program is for the young tennis player of intermediate ability who can gain experience in balanced competition and have fun playing in an organized program.

The program is open to boys and girls under 14 years of age who have never advanced past the third round in a USLTA sanctioned tournament.

The playoffs for Southern California were held in the Sports Arena with Lido Isle winning in the 14 and under division. Trophies were presented to all league winners and runner-up.

Nostalgia Set To Music

BY CLAIREE TYNES

"You never know when you might get discovered" giggled Sandi Guggenmos and Karen Strasler who count it as pure joy to labor with scissors and needle when the end result is theatrical.

It seems logical that anyone associated with performances would covet the star role. Not so, say Sandi and Karen, "Oh sure, we almost always wind up filling in when somebody breaks a leg or the chorus line is thin, but by then the costumes are ready and we pretty well know the show". Dual-talented, Miss Strasler carried the lead in Valencia High School's 1974 production of "You Can't Take It With You".

"Ziegfeld Follies of 1920 is definitely a challenge because few of the design sketches are available and practically none of the materials used then can be found. A limited budget demands further creative ingenuity from the young designers. Endless hours of research are the basis for the understanding of the mood and style of the period which must be interpreted on the stage for an authentic looking show. (After all, there are those around who remember how it really was.)

"Did you know that is spite of the fact that in 1920 we were in a severe depression, people paid as much as $500 a seat for a Follies show?", queried Sandi. The quizzical look on her face told volumes of the history, philosophy, psychology and human values she had also learned from her research.

"Ziegfeld follies of 1920" recreated and produced by John Leitch and Bill Tynes, will be performed by The Ziegfeld Players on August 14, 15, and 16 at 8 p.m. and on August 17 at 2:30 p.m. at the Valencia High School Auditorium in Placentia. Tickets are $1.50 and $1. for students. Group rates for thirty or more seats will be one third off.

HOW TO BUY BETTER FURNITURE

There's an old saying which goes - "you get what you pay for."

In many ways, this is true. However, it is not necessarily the case when it comes to buying furniture. To most of us, furniture represents an investment, and in today's economy, we do want to get the most for our hard-earned dollars. It's important to know what to look for.

Let's start with upholstered furniture. We shop for a sofa, and generally, we look for three things, does it look good?, is it comfortable? and, can we afford it? All three of these things are important to us. However - will it last? Is important to know what kind of frame is under all that cozy padding - and, what's in the padding? The frame should be one of a good hardwood - oak or alderwood is common out here. The fill for the cushions can be made of a number of things - check the manufacturers guarantee. Nationally advertised name brands do not always mean the greatest quality - some times the price is higher as a result of all that advertising - not because of the workmanship in the sofa.

With everything as expensive as it is these days, it's important to shop wisely. I'll give you more help in future "Pointers".

Fondly,

Peggy
